Write a letter to a relative in England about John Smith's forced work program from either the perspective of a laborer or a businessman in Jamestown. Be sure to talk about how you (as a laborer or businessman) feel about the "no work, no food" law. How might the two groups felt differently about the law?